

Get to know the Danes

Are you a Ph.D student or Postdoc? Would you like to meet and get to know a Danish family? Make some Danish friends? Then sign up and join us at the start-up event on Monday the 19th of November.

Aarhus University and Studenterhus Aarhus are once again organizing the successful Internationalize with (Aarh)us, where we match Ph.D. students and postdocs with Danish families.

In short, the project is a dinner club, where you are offered a Danish contact family (a Danish employee from one of the participating companies + his/her family) that can give you a unique insight into the Danish culture outside academia, while you share your own culture.

Why should you join?

It is a unique opportunity for you to get to know everyday Danes and build a social network outside of your workplace. Past participants have said:

- "I think the program ... provided me with an opportunity to get into the Danish society and learn Danish culture".
- "It gave me a tiny window to escape from my university routine and meet great people."
- "Thank you! I have Danish friends now!"

How to sign up?

Send an email to Sigrun Schaumburg-Müller at sigrun@studenterhusaarhus.dk before November 6th. We will send you a short questionnaire, and then match you with a Danish family. As there are a limited number of families, we will select among all incoming applications to assure the best matches. We will let you know about your host family in advance before you meet them at the start-up event on November 19th.

Practical info

The programme runs from November 2018 til May 2019. It includes:
