

European turmoil, while the sun rises in the East?

Investment implications of a divergent global expansion. The European crisis continues and remains a key driver of financial markets. Europe remains in recession while the US has recently surprised to the upside. China seems to be on the mend after having suffered a policy induced slowdown. Where next for the global economy? And what does that mean for investors?

After the event, you will also have the chance to get all your private questions answered in a dialogue with Danske Bank representatives.
