This newsletter is dedicated to our key events this fall. At the moment we are in the process of planning PhD Career Day, our annual event where companies and young researchers meet and network. However, we also have a range of other exiting events focusing on how to strengthen your professional profile for a job outside academia.

---

Breaking news!

Aarhus University is now a member of the VITAE Community! Now you can sign up and get access to exciting and relevant on-line resources for your PhD or Post-Doc journey. VITAE is the global leader in the professional development of researchers providing support to institutions striving for research excellence, innovation and impact, to enhance the skills and careers of researchers. Sign up using your AU email and discover what resources are relevant for you.

Read more and sign up.

---

Fall events
Calling all PhDs and JRs!

October 2: Workshop: Exploring skills and career options
Do you ever get the feeling that you lack awareness of your professional skills acquired at your research years at AU? Do you ever wonder how your skills and competencies matches your dream job? Then this workshop is for you! Targeted all PhDs and JRs who want to explore their skills in relation to job requirements, this workshop will give you a greater understanding and awareness of your own skills and capabilities.

Read more

Are you interested in the scientific and medical communication sectors?

September 26: The job behind the title: Scientific and Medical Communication
Meet three Aarhus University PhD alumni who will present their insights and experiences working in the scientific publishing, scientific communication and in the medical writing industries. The speakers are:

- Anne Færch Nielsen, Center Manager CellPAT
- Marlene Fredborg, Scientific Officer, Innovationsfonden
- Sandra Tillmann, Medical Writer Leo Pharma and Editor, Acta Neuropsychiatrica

Read more

Mark you calenders!

PhD Career Day 2019

Learn more about your job opportunities in the industry
PhD Career Day is open for PhDs and junior researchers from all faculties at Aarhus University with the aim of providing an overview of non-academic career possibilities for PhD students and junior researchers as well as introducing the companies to the talents at Aarhus University.

The event is free of charge. Sign up here.

Here is a list of companies who are participating in PhD Career Day 2019 so far:

Getting Ahead: Recruitment Insights with Company Panel

Join this pre-event on PhD Career Day 2019 for all PhD students and Junior Researchers who want more specific knowledge about what a selection of companies look for in CVs and cover letters and what the recruitment process is like. The event comprises of a panel discussion and a Q&A session on 4 key topics. Sign up here.

Don't forget!

CV Webinar

November 26
This introductory webinar will give you a basic understanding about how to work with your CV as a researcher. We recommend that you join our CV Writing Workshop in December too, if you want to expand your CV writing skills further by working with your CV in interaction with others.

CV Writing Workshop
December 11

In this workshop you will be working on your own CV for jobs in the private or public sector. We will work with the structure and content of your CV: you will write a profile description and translate your academic skills into language that can be understood outside of academia. We recommend that you participate in our CV Webinar in November prior to the workshop to get a general introduction to CV writing in the private and public sector.

Vibeke Broe
PhD Career Consultant
Phone: 29 42 60 29
Email: vbr@au.dk

Jane Midtgaard Madsen
Career Consultant
Phone: 51 22 68 80
Email: jamm@au.dk

AU Career PhD Facebook